NORTHAM, Nov. 25.

Death of an Old Colonist. - One more of the few remaining original settlers has passed away. Mr. Richard Jones, to whom we refer, arrived here in the ship Lotus, in the latter part of 1829 - the year of the proclamation of the colony. He therefore was one of the pioneer colonists, and experienced a full share of the trials and hardships which befel those who were the first to land here. For several years past Mr. Jones had lived at the Blackwood, and up to a short time ago, although very aged, he continued hale and hearty. His remains were conveyed to Bunbui, and were afterwards brought up by a vessel to Fremantle. The funeral, which took place on Tuesday, Nov. 21, was largely and moet respectably attended; notwithstanding the short notice that was given.

A SERVICEABLE PLOUGH.

At Rockingham, on the farm of .Mr. Adam Armstrong few days ago we had an opportunity of witnessing at work a ' notion,' in the shape of a plough, known as the Ladow pulverising harrow. The plot of ground upon which the implement was at work at the time of our visit contained various soils ranging from the heavy swamp to that of the thick loom and sand. The plough, which in some respects is a very neat piece of machinery, appeared to be highly adapted from each description of soil it passed over as with one man and two horses, it turned up in a few hours five acres of ground, which, with the old-fashioned plough, could not have been done under as many days. The Ladow pulverising barrow is a plough of peculiar shape, its entire feature being twelve steel discs, the shape of plates, revolving upon an axle, and which are pressed into the ground by the driver's weight, and so regulated by him according to the condition and quality of the soil. In a Colony such as this, where skilled farming labour is such an important item to our agriculturalists, the Ladow pulverising harrow plough is to be commended to the consideration of all who may be engaged in farming pursuits. Messrs. J. and W. Bateman, of Fremnntle are the Agents for these useful implements, the value of which have only to be made known to be appreciated by all classes of the farming community.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT OF FREMANTLE.

The oldest surviving representative of the Armstrong family, the original members of which arrived at Fremantle by the ship Gilmore, in the year 1829, passed peacefully away at East Fremantle yesterday morning, in her 72nd year. The deceased lady, Miss Margaret Louisa Armstrong, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Armstrong, and owing to the death of her mother in the year 1873, she undertook the responsibilities incidental to the upbringing of a large family of brothers and sisters, among whom are Mrs. John Bateman, of East Fremantle, Mrs. Horace Stirling, of South Perth, and Mrs. F. W. Koeppe, of Mt. Lawley. Throughout her long and useful life, Miss Armstrong resided at or near Fremantle. The head of the Armstrong family, Captain Adam, was a Waterloo veteran. Arriving at Fremantle with five sons and one daughter, the little band of pioneers founded a home at Dalkeith, near Nedlands, ultimately settling at Ravenswood, near Pinjarrah, where Captain Armstrong's remains were laid to rest during the middle sixties. The large colored glass window that formed a striking feature of old St. George's Cathedral, was the handiwork of Miss Armstrong's maternal grandfather, the late Mr. Richard Jones, who arrived at Fremantle by the ship Lotus in the year 1829. Mr. Jones was Perth's first glazier and sign-writer, and inscribed, with letters of gold, upon each side of the variegated window, the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments and the Apostles' Creed. The Jones family pioneered the Wanneroo and Blackwood districts, in the latter of which the brothers Richard and William, aided by their sister, Mrs. M'Hard, settled during the fifties, and established the well-known Southampton Estate. Up to the last, Miss Armstrong led a life of unselfish industry, helpful and cheerful to all around her and by her devotion to duty and high sense of honor, she has left a large circle of friends in all portions of the State to treasure her memory.

- Notes for Mary Ann Jones:
THE WEST AUSTRALIAN NEWSPAPER DATED Monday 24 June 1912 DEATH OF AN OLD COLONIST. MRS. MARY ANN McHARD. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Mary Ann McHard, who ranked amongst the oldest living colonists of Western Australia, joined the great majority. On May 31, 1829, Mr. Richard Jones, accompanied by his wife and five children, R. T. Jones; W. J. Jones, Louisa, Mary Ann, and Maria, embarked on the ship Lotus: for Western Australia, which arrived at Fremantle on October 9 of the same year, after a passage occupying over four months. Mrs. McHard was then a child nearly four years of age, having been born on Christmas Day, 1825. During the year following their arrival in Western Australia her mother died, leaving the father to look after five young children. He lived in and near Perth for some years, and it was not until after the deceased had married the late Mr. H. McHard, by whom she had four children, and after his death, that Mr. R. Jones, accompanied by his two sons-R. T. Jones and W. P. Jones and Mrs. McHard (then a widow, with four children) decided to remove to the Blackwood, of which he was, one of the earliest pioneers, settling at Southampton, near Balingup, one of the finest properties in that district. For many years Mrs. McHard resided in that locality, and saw her four daughters married, viz., Mrs. John York, Mrs. Patton, Mrs. A. S. Teede, and Mrs. Lindsay Armstrong. Some years back, on the death of Mr. R. T. Jones. who with his brother Mr. W. J. Jones (neither of whom married) carried on the farm at Southampton on the death of their father, Mrs. McHard and her brother removed to Bunbury, where they lived until the death of the latter in their own residence. Mrs. McHard, however, at the time was herself an invalid, and subsequently developed an illness which was throughout a serious one. For the last three or four years she was practically bed-ridden, and her demise had been anticipated for some months. She leaves three daughters-Mrs. J. York, Mrs. Alfred Teede, and Mrs. L. Armstrong-26 grand-children, and 12 great-grandchildren. At the request of the deceased her remains were conveyed to Perth to be interred along side those of her husband in the Anglican Cemetery, East Perth. The funeral took place on Thursday last, and was largely attended, the Rev. J. A. Howes conducting the burial service. The chief mourners were Mrs. J.M. York, Mrs. Alfred Teede, Mrs. L. Armstrong (daughters), Mr. L. Armstrong (son in-law). Mrs. J. Ellis, Mrs. E. C. Witton (granddaughters), and Mr. E. C. Witton (grandson). The pall-bearers were Messrs. Isaac Wood, J. H. Paisley, H. Ogborne, and C. Read. A large number of wreaths and floral tributes were placed on the grave and many letters and messages of condolence were received. The funeral arrangements were in the hands of Messrs. Bowra and O'Dea.

OBITUARY

MR ALFRED S. TEEDE.

Death has laid its heavy hand on another of the pioneers of the South West in the person of Mr. Alfred Stuart Teede, who passed away at his residence, Vasse-road, South Bunbury, on the evening of December 10, after a painful illness. The late Mr. Teede, who was in his 59th year, was born at York, (W.A.) and after a long residence there he migrated to the South-West, where he spent the remainder of his years. He was well known as a successful farmer, but perhaps came more into touch with the public as the owner of several race horses, prominent among which were "Bob Panic" and "Bunbury Lass." The late gentleman enjoyed a wide circle of friends and was well known for his geniality, generosity and straightforwardness. The knowledge that he had been stricken down with an obscure complaint caused his friends many misgivings, and when after an illness lasting about four months he succumbed, expressions of the deepest sympathy were heard on all sides. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, the Rev. S. Mills conducting the last rites. The initial portion of the service was held at the house, the cortege thence moved to the new cemetery, the interment taking place in the Congregational portion. Rev. Andrew Buchanan and Mr. Armstrong (Greenbushes) were the chief mourners, the pallbearers being Messrs. E. Rose, M.L.C., A. R. Foreman, C. Brockman, C. Reynolds and Delaporte. A large number of townspeople and country friends of the deceased attended to pay their respects to the memory of a dear friend. In compliance with the request of the deceased, there were no flowers. The casket was of highly polished jarrah, with beautiful silver mountings. The funeral arrangements were carried out by Messrs. W. Brittain and Son. The late Mr Teede was the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Teede who came to this country from England long before steam ships played an important part in the trade of the world, settling in the South-West, the early pioneers conducted perhaps the first school in this locality, Mr. Alf. Teede was well known throughout the lower South-West, he having been a partner with Mr. W. A. G. Walter of the Tanjannerup property. Later he acquired a valuable property in Kings Road, South Bunbury from Mr. C. S. Brockman, which he disposed of shortly before his fatal illness. His wife, who remains to mourn the loss, was Miss McHard. Of a large family only two sisters of the late Mr. Teede remain their names being Mrs. A. Buchanan and Mrs. E. M. Clarke, both of Bunbury

The Late Mr. Alfred Teede.

By the death of Mr. Alfred Stuart Teede, which occurred at the Bunbury Hospital a few days ago, after a long and painful illness, one of the most enterprising and respected settlers of the South-West passed away. Mr. Teede was a member of a very old Western Australian family, whose forbears settled at York during the forties and, subsequently, moved to Bunbury, where their descendants married into many of the best known families. One of the deceased gentleman's sisters is Mrs Ephraim Clarke, and another is Mrs Andrew Buchanan, to whose husband I made reference last week, as the oldest clergyman in the State. The late George Robert Teede, who was one of Western Australia's oldest Clerk of Courts, was an elder brother of the subject of this notice and whose sudden death on board a P. and O. steamer while he was on a visit to England with his brother-in-law, Mr. Ephriam Clarke, M.L.C., was the cause of universal regret among old Bunbury residents, with whom he had lived so long. The Teedes are a race of big people, in every sense of the word - big in stature and large hearted. As a youth the late Alfred Stuart served a very useful apprenticeship among stock of every description under the late Henry Higham, who was one of our most successful Nor-West pioneers: with the result that nothing on a farm came amiss to him. For several years Mr. Teede was one of Balingup's prominent pastoralists, where he was associated with Mr. Charles Brockman and subsequently entered upon farming pursuits at Nannup and, afterwards, in the wheat belt, at Bungula, near Kellerberrin. Another of Mr. Teede's sisters was the late Mrs. Dixon, of Boyup Brook, whose handiwork in the manufacture of bacon, jams, chutneys and other preserves was well known in the South-West. Up till recently, Mr. Teede pursued his farming activities at Hopelands, near Picton Junction, a pretty little estate that adjoins the homestead of the old Forrest family with frontages on the Preston River and which he purchased from the late Dr. J. W. Hope, the Commissioner of Public Health. Mr. Charles B. Teede, one of Fremantle's leading merchants of the seventies, was a brother of Alfred Stuart. To old time Fremantle residents Charles Teede will be remembered as the successor of Mr. Chalkley on Doonan's corner, at the junction of High and Adelaide streets, opposite St. John's Church. Chalkley's twists, a kind of French rolled bread, Leach's long lolly sticks-the first locally-made sweets to be wrapped in white paper-Paddy Stone's ginger beer and Israel Senior's pies were the delights of boys of the sixties, especially those from Perth who took part in the sports on the green in celebration of Foundation Day every first of June, at which they would foregather per Randell's steamer the Lady Stirling. They were the days when "Slasher" Blake, the Port's tonsorial artist, gave exhibitions of his skill as a Poker player and "stacker" of cards and when Taylor Whitehead, the Perth barber would go one better by expounding his never-failing "systems" of picking winners! The late Mr. Alfred Teede married a member of the old McHard family, the head of which was, during the 'forties, Perth's first bookbinder, who bound the earliest files of the parent papers of the "West Australian" and "Daily News" in his Devonshire Arms hostelry, on the corner of Barrack and Hay streets

WOMAN'S REALM. SOCIAL NOTES - 90th Birthday Party.

In honour of Mrs. John Bateman, who celebrated her 90th birthday on Thursday, her daughter, Mrs. H. K. Maley, and her granddaughter Miss Thora Bateman, arranged a party that afternoon at her home in Alexandra-road, East Fremantle. All the morning friends poured in to congratulate Mrs. Bateman and wish her a happy birthday. Mrs. Maley had kept the party a secret from her mother, and when she brought her into the dining room where tea was served, to meet the guests, it was a complete surprise. The tea table was arranged with masses of violets and pansies, and the birthday cake, 'made by Miss Thora Bateman, was also in mauve shades. Among those present were: Mr. J. W. Bateman and Miss Thora Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. L. Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Maley. Mr. and Mrs. V. Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bateman. Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Maley, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bateman. Mr. and Mrs. N. Stirling: Mesdames R. Broomhall, J. Winzar. SBndy, Hutton. F. Payne. E. Wright. A Turton. G. Pearse. and Misses F. Sendy and Arundel.

W'OMAN'S REALM - PIONEER'S DEATH.

Late Mrs. M. Bateman. The death of Mrs. Mary Bateman, the widow of the late Mr. J. W. Bateman, which took place yesterday morning at her home at East Fremantle, severs another link with the early listory of the State. The late Mrs. Bateman was, before her marriage, Miss Mary Armstrong, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Armstrong, pioneer settlers in the Pinjarra district, and she was born at Ravenswood 90 years ago. She celebrated her 90th birthday on September 10. Mrs. Bateman's husband, who died about 36 years ago, was the eldest son of the late Mr. John Bateman., of Fremantle, who was among the earliest pioneers of this State. They were married at the Johnston Memorial Church in Fremantle by the late Rev. Joseph Johnston. They had seven sons (two of whom were killed in the Great War) and are survived by five sons, Messrs. John, Lewis, Guy, Vernon end Charles Bateman, and one daughter, Mrs. H. K. Maley. Mrs. Bateman's death was not unexpected, as she had been ailing for some time, although it is only a few weeks since she celebrated her 90th birthday with a party, arranged by her daughter. The funeral, which will take place at the Fremantle Cemetery at 11.30 am. today, will" be preceded by a s-rvice at the Johnston Memorial Congregational Church, Fremantle, at 11 o'clock.

OBITUARY MR. J. W. BATEMAN.

In the early hours of Friday, May 17, there passed away, at his residence, in North Fremantle, Mr. J. W. Bateman, eldest son of Mr. John Bateman, and principal of the well-known firm of J. and W. Bateman. By his death, which was primarily due to ptomaine poison-ing, Fremantle has lost one of her most prominent citizens. Of him it is said that he was in indefatigable worker, a man of few words, but of unusual experience in all matters relating to shipping and commerce; a man of sound judgment, sincerity of purpose, and one for whom many residents have been in the habit of obtaining sound advice. He was unassuming in manner, and, although not having taken any of the higher public offices, had always manifested a keen interest in all movements having for their object the good of the State and the district in which he resided. He was a man respected and admired for a manly, honestspoken opinion, which always commanded attention. His death is a loss to the community, which can ill afford to lose such an upright and loyal citizen. The history of Mr. Bateman's life in Western Australia is really a record of the progress of the State, for with the increased prosperity of the land of his birth his business connections correspondingly rose. Born in Fremantle in 1852, he was the eldest son of Mr. John Bateman, shipowner and pioneer, who in the early days of Western Australia was interested in the whaling industry, in lightering, and in the coastal, Singapore, Chinese, and Mauritius trades. Mr. Bateman, senior, who survives the deceased, sent his son to school in Fremantle, and later on to Bishop Hale's School. In his younger days Mr. J. W. Bateman was passionately fond of the more arduous forms of sport. In the early sixties the firm of J. and W. Bateman was formed, and carried on an extensive trade along the coast and to Singapore, China, and Mauritius, a greater portion of the shipping from this country to those lands being in their hands. The deceased ultimately entered his father's firm, and early evinced that keen business ability and foresight which in later years stood him in good stead, and was chiefly responsible for his successful career. In 1880 he married Mary, daughter of Adam Armstrong, an old colonist. The demands of the business, which came more and more under his direct control, did not prevent him from interesting himself in the welfare of the State and of Fremantle in particular. He was the founder of the W.A. Shipping Association, and was chairman of directors of that body for many years. For over five years he presided over the affairs of the Fremantle Chamber of Commerce. Under his guidance the firm, of which at the time of his death he was the sole member, extended its operations over the whole of the State. As chairman of the Fremantle Citizens League and member of several other bodies, he came into close contact with the people of the Port, by whom he was held in deep respect, a fact which was emphasised last week by the halfmasting of all flags. Mr. Bateman was attended from the commencement of his fortnights illness by Dr. Martin, who called in other medical practitioners in consultation. Deceased leaves a widow, a daughter, and seven, sons, the two eldest of whom have been engaged in their father's firm for some years. Seldom in the history of Fremantle has a funeral approached the dimensions of that of the late Mr. John Wesley Bateman, which took place on Saturday afternoon from the residence, "Sydenham," Lukin street, North Fremantle. It was a marked tribute to the high position held by Mr. Bateman as a public man, a leader of the mercantile community, and a respected resident of Fremantle, a town in which he had practically resided all his life. Prior to the cortege leaving "Sydenham," a short and deeply impressive service was conducted by the Rev. E. Davies, of Johnston Memorial Congregational Church, at which the deceased had been a regular attendant. There were present about 40 of his relatives. Afterwards the funeral procession started for Fremantle Cemetery, and ere it reached the entrance there were no fewer than 150 vehicles following the hearse. The route taken was along Swan street to the North Fremantle Bridge, along East street and High street to the Cemetery gates. It was close on 5 o'clock before the service began. The coffin was of massive oak, with carved mouldings and solid brass mountings, with brass breastplate, on which was engraved, "John Wesley Bateman, died 17th May, 1907, aged 54 years." The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers:-Captain T. E. Shaw, Captain Rickers, Mr. Barrymore, Mr. G. F. Moore, Mr. T. L. Harbutt, Mr. E. F. Duffield, Mr. W. Paterson, and Mr. A. G. Leeds. The coffin was placed by the side of the grave, and the service was then commenced by the Rev. E. Davies. It is estimated that about 2,000 people were around the grave. The chief mourners were Messrs. John Bateman, sen (father), John W. Bateman, Louis L. Bateman, Herbert P. Bateman, Guy Vernon Bateman, William Bateman, and Charles Bateman (sons), William A. Bateman, Louis Bateman, and Samuel Bateman (brothers), F. Hollis, J. Higham, H. Higham, H. Stirling, F. W. Koeppe, W. Armstrong and A. Armstrong (brothersinlaw), F. Bateman, M. Bateman, H. B. Higham, A. E. Higham, F. G. Higham, E. A. Higham, N. Higham, W. Higham, E. H. Stirling, A. Stirling, Thos. Hicks, Richard Hicks, W. Hicks, L. D. Hicks, H. D. Hicks. H. Wilson, V. Wilson, Louis Konoop, and Geo. Forsyth (cousins). The following public bodies were represented:-Fremantle Town Council (Mr. Macmillan, Town Clerk, in the unavoidable absence of the Mayor) ; North Fremantle and East Fremantle Councils; Fremantle Chamber of Commerce, by Messrs. W. D. Gilfillan (president), and Allnutt, Hudson, and Feely (vicepresidents); Fremantle and District Citizens' League, by Mr. W. Fisher Beard (vicepresident); the Wholesale Grocers and Traders' Association, by Mr. S. Lodge, of G. Wood Son and Co. (chairman); Fremantle District Traders' Association, by Messrs. P. J. Press and J. A. Hicks (vicepresidents); National Political League, by Mr. F. W. Green (secretary) ; the shipowners by Messrs. Ridley, Salmon, Downer, King, Buzolich, and Syme; Commercial Travellers' Association, by Mr. L. Alexander (president); Perth Chamber of Commerce, by Mr. F. Conigrave (secretary); Trinity Congregational Church, Perth, by Mr. C. A. Hall (deacon); W.A.S.A., Ltd., by Cr. F. Nicholas (secretary); Fremantle Cemetery Board, Fremantle Hospital Board, and Fremantle Tramway Board, by Mr. E. Solomon (chairman); Fremantle Harbour Trust, by Mr. F. Stevens (secretary); Captain Irvine (Chief Harbourmaster) and Captain Morrison (Deputy Harbourmaster); the Police Department, by Inspector McKenna, and other bodies. Among those who attended to pay their last token of respect to the deceased were Mr. Jas. Price (Minister for Works), Mr. D. Forrest. Mr. R. Fairbairn, R.M., Mr. W. A. Murphy, J.P., Mr. W. Mills, Mr. E. Craik, Mr. T. Carter, Mr. J. Humble. Mr. A. E. Davies, M.L.A., Messrs. J and F. Gallop, Cr. R. Holmes, Mr. George Holmes, and the members of the Fremantle Masonic Lodge No. 2, to which the late Mr. Bateman had belonged. Over 100 employees of the firm of Messrs. J. and W. Bateman walked from "Sydenham" to the Cemetery behind the chief mourning coaches.

Bateman, John Wesley (1852-1907) by G. C. Bolton (This article was published in Australian Dictionary of Biography, Volume 1, (MUP), 1966)

(His father) John Bateman (1789-1855), merchant, was born in London. He was a silk mercer of Cheapside in 1824 when he married Mary Ann Bennyfield. By this marriage he had three sons, John (1824-1909), Walter (1826-1882) and Charles (b.1828) and six daughters. Bateman emigrated to Western Australia in the Medina in 1830, and at the second sale of town lots bought an acre (0.4 ha) block in Fremantle where he built a stone house and a store dealing in merchandise of many kinds. He became postmaster at Fremantle in March 1833. From his register of incoming letters it appears that the volume of business was seldom overwhelming. He was a member of the Fremantle Town Trust from its foundation in 1848 to 1853, with one interval. His chief claim to prominence was his part in establishing the Fremantle Whaling Co., which operated in 1837 as a competitor of American whalers who victualled at the port. Its greatest rival, however, was a Perth company also formed in 1837, but both seem to have succumbed to the depression of the early 1840s. The sole memento of the Fremantle company was a tunnel, originally built to transport their produce, which for many years ran between Arthur's Head and the Round House, Fremantle. Bateman died on 3 April 1855 soon after his wife took over his duties as postmaster. His sons took over the family business, which was formed into a company in 1857. Walter Bateman also succeeded his mother as postmaster from April 1855 to November 1861, served on the Town Trust in 1860, 1862, and 1864-65, and was chosen in Fremantle's first parliamentary election for nomination to the Legislative Council, where he sat from 1868 to 1870. He sold his share of the business to his brother John in 1872, and died unmarried on 24 September 1882. John Bateman took no active role in politics, but throughout his long life zealously pushed Fremantle's claims as a harbour, having an unrivalled knowledge of the near-by coast. He served on a committee for a new jetty in 1871, and was one of the few witnesses called by the 1892 select committee on the development of Fremantle Harbour. In 1890 he retired, selling his business to John Wesley Bateman (1852-1907), the eldest of his four surviving sons by his marriage on 17 August 1850 to Rachel White, formerly of Sydenham, London. John Wesley Bateman was a member of the Fremantle Town Council between 1880 and 1882, and president of the Fremantle Chamber of Commerce from 1895 to 1900, at a time when the discovery of gold and the construction of an artificial harbour at Fremantle brought unparalleled expansion to business in the port. His descendants became prominent shareholders in the firm of J. & W. Bateman. As exporters of timber, sandalwood and horses, and importers of sugar and other tropical produce, the firm developed a considerable trade between Fremantle and south-east Asia during the century. Until the coming of steamships in 1888, the firm had a monopoly of the coastal trade to the north-west and the Kimberley, and continued to supply many sheep and cattle stations with stores and credit well into the twentieth century.

John Wesley Bateman and Mary Armstrong had the following children:

THE DEATH OF LIEUT BATEMAN A SCION OF TWO OLD FAMILIES.

(By "Hugh Kalyptus.")

The death of Lieut Herbert Bate-man, of the 28th Battalion, announced in "The Daily News" of Monday, as having occurred somewhere in France, while the gallant young officer was leading his men against an attack by the enemy, removes another link in a family whose members, on both sides, were associated with Western Australia from 1829- the year of the colony's foundation. The head of the Bateman clan was the Lieutenant's great grand-father, who was Fremantle's first post-master, the office having been built by the old pioneer, upon a section that is now in the possession of Mr James Mews, situated at the rear of the offices of Messrs. M. L. Moss and Dwyer, the well-known solicitors. The two sons of Fremantle's first postmaster, John and Walter, established the well-known business of J. and W. Bateman in the middle thirties, hence the concern, with that of Lionel Samson and Son, which dates back to 1829, is the oldest commercial institution in the State. Of the two Bateman brothers, John, who was the elder, married a daughter of the late Mr Jabez White, of Cannington, their eldest son being John Wesley, who was Lieutenant Bateman's father, his mother being a daughter of Mr Adam Armstrong. Mr Armstrongs' father, four brothers, and a sister arrived at Clarence, near Rockingham, by the ship Gilmore, just three months after Governor Stirling landed at Fremantle. The family hailed from the High-lands of Scotland, and brought from their old home, in Dalkeith, several head of blood stock, together, with considerable farming equipment, settling first on the northern bank of the Swan, on the section now known as Gallop's' Garden, which they named Dalkeith. Subsequently the Armstrongs moved to Ravenswood, a few miles west of Pinjarrah, which is still the property of one of the family-Mrs Alfred Thomas, the proprietress of the Ravenswood hotelry, being a grand-daughter of Captain Armstrong; who led one of the Scottish regiments at Waterloo, under the Duke of Wellington. Captain Armstrong's wife, who died at their Dalkeith home in Scotland, was a daughter of the celebrated violinist, Neil Gow, whose descendants in Australia include the musical Packer family, of Hobart. In one of his military engagements Captain Armstrong lost an eye, and after many vicissitudes incident to the gigantic struggle between Wellington and Napoleon, he, with his five stalwart sons and their sister, who subsequently married Mr Montgomery and went to reside in Canada, left the old land to try his fortunes in the Swan River Settlement, which a son of Sir Robert Peel, who was then England's Prime Minister, was booming throughout the Press of the United Kingdom as a land of milk and honey. Of the five Armstrong boys, Francis Fraser will be best remembered by Perth folk, he having occupied the position of collector for the City Council for many years, his well-set, portly frame seated on his white-faced pony, Tommy, being a daily feature of the Terrace. The old collector was popularly, known as Honest Frank, his punctilious accuracy in monetary matters being his outstanding characteristic. The Armstrongs all had large families, the eldest son of Francis Fraser, Mr Francis Gow Armstrong, is now residing at Greenough, and is one of Geraldton's ex-Mayors. The military vein evidently runs throughout the Armstrong race, every one of the five sons being represented at the Front. A grandson of Mr. George Armstrong, Private Pearse, who is a son of Mr and Mrs James Pearse, of North Fremantle, is at present fighting the Empire's battles somewhere in France with Private Vernon Bateman, who left Fremantle for Egypt just after the news came to hand that his younger brother, Corporal William, had fallen while in the trenches at Gallipoli. The Armstrong clan at Fremantle, Clarence, Greenough, South Perth, and as far distant as Newtown and Yallingup, near Busselton, have each sent their units to the Empire's aid, and one is well within the mark by stating that the descend-ants of the Waterloo veteran now doing their bit for their King and country, border closely upon the half-century. This brief and hurried re-view of a brave race of people goes to demonstrate that the individual, whom we proudly point to as Anzac, is the natural production of some of the best Anglo-Saxon blood that left England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, during the early part of last century, with the determination to conquer the savage against heavy odds, and to brave the battles and the breezes of what was then termed the inhospitable Antipodes. And just as their forefathers kept up their end at Trafalgar, Waterloo, Balaclava, and other great struggles of their time, so the cubs of those old lions are doing to-day. Hence the Anzac is neither a fluke nor a crea-tion of the day before yesterday, but is one of Nature's gradual evolutions. It is as natural for the Anzac to be a great fighter as it was for Carbine to gallop, and as the blood of Musket and Mersey improved under the sunny skies, and in the open spaces of Aus-tralia, so the blood and stamina of the game old self-reliant Anglo-Saxon race has, under like conditions, added to its aggressive virility, the outcome of which has been that, just as Aus-tralia has produced one of the best of horses, she has, likewise, moulded the bravest fighting men in the world.

A Hardy Pioneer. - MR LINDSAY ARMSTRONG.

Our Greenbushes correspondent thus supplements a previous obituary notice appearing in our columns : - The death of Mr Lindsay Richard Armstrong, which occurred on January 15, at the Greenbushes Hospital, after a brief illness, removes another of the hardy pioneers of the Blackwood District, from amongst a large circle of friends, who will miss his genial kind personality. The deceased gentleman was one of the oldest residents of the district. He was born at Ravenswood, Pinjarrah, on August 8, 1852, and lived with his uncles, Messrs R. and W. Jones in 1862 at Southampton. His father, Mr A. Armstrong, landed near Fremantle from the ship Gilmore as far back as 1829, so that he was associated with a family who pinned their faith to Western Australia very early in its history. His wife, Agnes and a family of five sons and four daughters survive him. His son, Roy, was killed whilst on active service with the A. I. F.

Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard had the following children:

- i. ELLA EVELYN⁴ ARMSTRONG (daughter of Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard) was born about 1882 in Blackwood, Western Australia, Australia. She died on 27-Sep-1971 in Perth, Western Australia, Australia. She married Edgar Charles Whitten on 26-Apr-1906 in Greenbushes, Western Australia, Australia.

WITTON-ARMSTRONG.

A very quiet wedding was celebrated on Thursday last, when, at the residence of the bride's parents, on the Blackwood River, Mr. Edgar Charles Witton, a well known resident of Greenbushes and the eldest son of Mr. Witton of Buntory, was married to Miss Ella Evelyn Armstrong, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Armstrong. The ceremony was of the quietest character and only the immediate relatives of the happy couple were present. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. H. Devlin. Miss Lily Armstrong sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid and Mr. H. Kirkwood as best man. The happy couple have been the recipients of a large number of handsome presents.

They left for Busselton the same day where the honeymoon will be spent.

- ii. OSWALD LINDSAY ARMSTRONG (son of Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard) was born about 1883 in Blackwood, Western Australia, Australia. He died about 1950 in Sussex, Western Australia, Australia.

Pioneer's Death

Descendant Of Two Old Families

There died in Busselton recently a descendant of two of Western Australia's oldest families, the founders of which arrived in the State in the year 1829. He was Mr. Oswald Lindsay Armstrong, who was born at Noralup Park, Balingup, in 1874, and who farmed the property Gregory Park on the Blackwood River until about 4 years ago when he retired to live at Busselton, sharing his time between his sister Lily, and brother Ernest. Mr. Armstrong was a member of the fourth generation of two pioneering families. He was the great grandson of Richard Jones, who arrived in W.A. on the ship "Lotus" in 1829, and of Captain Adam Armstrong who arrived in the same year in the Gilmore. Mr. Jones was the original owner of the area extending from the Commercial Union

Chambers to the Palace Hotel up William-street to Hay-street and along there to Gleeson's tobacconist's shop, but he disposed of this property in the early 1840's and took up land at Southampton on the Blackwood, eight miles from Balingup. He had the first flour mill in the district, with a water wheel the construction being supervised by Sir John Forrest's father, who was building the first Blackwood river bridge at Bridgetown, and who spent his spare time at Southampton. The grave of Johnny Alum, an Indian cook who came out with the family, and who died in '68 at the age of 83, and of the native outlaw Nullung shot by the police at the Mill, are close to the old homestead. Mr. Armstrong's other great grandfather, Captain Armstrong, who has commanded a Highland Regiment at Waterloo, originally settled on the Swan River, and named the site Dalkeith after their Scottish home, but later moved to Ravenswood, on the Murray River.

(We are indebted for this information to Miss Lily A. Armstrong, of Bussell Highway Busselton, who says that they are still very interested in Blackwood "doings" and pleased to receive the "Blackwood Times.")

- iii. LILLY AGNES ARMSTRONG (daughter of Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard) was born about 1885 in Blackwood, Western Australia, Australia. She died on 02-Oct-1974 in Claremont, Western Australia, Australia.

SOUTH-WEST WEDDING.

FERGUSON- ARMSTRONG. GREENBUSHES CEREMONY.

(From Our Correspondent.)

Recently a pretty wedding was celebrated in St. Barnabas' Church, Greenbushes, the rector of Donnybrook (Rev. F. J. T. Attwell) officiating, the happy couple being Mr.

Donald Ferguson, youngest son of Mr. J. M. Ferguson, of Mt. Lawley, and Eileen ('Tony'), third daughter of Mrs. A. K. Armstrong, and the late Mr. L. R. Armstrong. The bride was given away by her brother Oswald, and wore a charming frock of soft satin, which was slightly draped and caught on one side with a beaded cabouehon and on the other side with a spray of orange blossom; a graceful beaded draping falling from the shoulders formed (he sleeves. The veil fell from a chaplet of orange blossom and formed a pretty train. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and fern, and wore a pearl ring, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids (Miss Maud Armstrong and Miss Sylvia Rose) wore frocks of rose pink and mauve satin caprices, draped with beautiful silver lace; silver lace and bugle beads formed . becoming head dresses. Each carried a bouquet of pink and mauve sweet peas, and wore gold wishbone and Nellie Stewart armlets, gifts of the bridegroom. Little Monnie. Fisher, cousin of the bride, carried her veilj, and was daintily frocked in white georgette trimmed with Val. lace and pink and blue rosebuds. The bride's mother Avore a becoming dress of black .satin and georgette, heavily beaded., with hat of black and satin trimmed with radium lace and mauve poppies. She carried a bouquet of beautiful violets. The bride's travelling dress consisted of a handsomely handworked fawn trietotine, the panels of the skirt being lined with satin of the same shade; the hat was of shot velvet with a green feather. Her travelling coat, a gift of the bridegroom, was of green velour with black fur collar and cuffs. Mr. W. Sullivan was best man, and Mr. M. Greatorex groomsmen. The bride presented the bridegroom with a handsome travelling rug. Mrs. A. J. Fisher made a gift of the wedding cake. Both the church and Miners' Hall, where the reception was held, were tastefully decorated. About some 70 guests sat down to the breakfast, the catering being in the capable hands, of Mr. F. Vague and Mrs. B. M. McLeod. There were visitors from Kojonup, Perth, Bunbury, and Bridgetown.

- x. MAUD MAY ARMSTRONG (daughter of Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard) was born about 1900 in Bridgetown, Western Australia, Australia. She VETERAN PIONEER.

A veteran pioneer in the person of Douglas Adam Armstrong celebrated his sixty-fourth birthday at a family family house party at the residence of his son Alfred, near Newtown on Saturday.

Mr. Armstrong was born at Ravens-wood in the year 1855 and is a veri-table well of information on early pioneering history. His parents ar-rived in Western Australia exactly one hundred years ago, his father in the s.s. Trusty, and his mother in the s.s. Gilmour, both ships arriving in Gage Roads at a short interval be-tween. Following their marriage in Perth, his parents ultimately settled in the Ravenswood district. With a young family growing up around them and there being no educational facil-ities nearer than Fremantle, his par-ents sold their holding and returned to that centre, where the family at-tended the school then conducted by Major Bland Humble. The children's school days over the family moved out to a new selection near Clarence, about ten miles east of Fremantle, one brother still residing there. After spending some time there, Mr. Armstrong joined his uncle in the Blackwood district. He recalls that the natives were a menace right throughout the district from Clarence to Blackwood and Ravenswood. While at Blackwood, Mr. Armstrong married a Miss Higgins. Some years later with a family of four children, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong again settled in the Ravenswood district, where he re-mained during the period 1889 to 1926. In 1926 he moved on again to take up land in the Cowaramup district. Despite his advanced years, his work there would do credit to one many years his junior.

DOUGLAS ADAM ARMSTRONG.

After an illness of five weeks' duration, Mr. Douglas Armstrong passed away at the Busselton Government Hospital on Sunday evening last, 2 April. Deceased, who was 83 years of age, was born at Rockingham near Fremantle, and at the age of 25 years he took up cattle raising at Nannup, where he married. His wife predeceased him some 37 years ago. In the year 1888 he took up farming in the Vasse district, where he remained until his end. With his passing, the late Mr. Armstrong, who was a grand son of the late Capt. Armstrong, a Waterloo veteran, obliterates another of the pioneers of this district. His quiet and unassuming disposition had earned for him the esteem and respect of a large circle of friends, particularly among the older residents of this part of the State, and there are many who will regret to hear of his demise. Referring to the deceased's grandfather, "The History of Fremantle" which was published on the occasion of the centenary of Fremantle in 1929, says: "Among the passengers on the ship Gilmore, which arrived in 1829, was Captain Armstrong, a Waterloo veteran whose wife was a daughter of Neil Gow, the celebrated violinist and composer. Whether the mantle of the famous musician has fallen upon any of his descendants in Western Australia, has yet to be demonstrated, but certainly the military instinct that distinguished Armstrong who fought under Wellington seems to have been transmitted to succeeding generations, for it is said that the names of no fewer than fifty of the clan are recorded upon various rolls of honour throughout the State. Deceased leaves five sons, Messrs. A. J. ("Alf"), E. B. ("Ted") W. J. ("Joe"), A. R. ("Adam") and L. C. (Lindsay), all of whom are well known in these parts and two daughters, Mesdames A. Fisher and J. Silverthorn, both of whom live at Kojonup. Deep sympathy is expressed to the sorrowing family. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, a service being conducted in the Church of England by the Rev. R. E. Davies, who later read the last rites at the graveside. The casket was borne to its resting place by Messrs. P. Thurkle, F. Taylor, T. Carter, G. Dawson, J. Taylor and V. E. Dawson, and the pall-bearers were Messrs. E. Dawson, A. Thurkle, H. Yelverton, A. Rose, H. Keenan and F. Bussell.

A number of beautiful floral tributes were laid upon the grave, among which were those from the following: Loo, Alf and family; Ev, Jack and family; Lizzie, Ned, Elvia and Aggie; Lindsay, Florrie and children; Ted, Joe and Adam; Henry, Blanche and boys; Gladys and John Shuttleworth and family: Alf, Allie and family; Rene and Albert Rose; Cedar, Vessie and boys; Mr. and Mrs. H. Carter, jun ; Mr. and Mrs. A. Thurkle and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Dawson; Mr. and Mrs. W. DISTRICT NEWS

The funeral of the late Mrs D. Armstrong, whose death I reported by wire took place on Friday and was largely attended. The Rev P. J. Gibney read the burial service, the pall-bearers being ' Mr G. Cross (Mayor of Busselton), and Messrs R. Gale, T. A. Thurkle, and Elijah Dawson. The chief mourners were her husband, her two eldest sons, two daughters and five of her brothers, besides a number of near relations and friends. The coffin, which was a very handsome one, was made by the firm of Housh and Donald, and was literally covered with wreaths and crosses. Flags were half-mast all over the town out of respect to the deceased and her family. The deceased, who was only 47 years of age, was born in the Toodyay district and came here with her parents to reside --when quite a young girl. She resided at the Blackwood for a good number of years, where she was respected by all who knew her, and about thirteen years ago she came with her husband and the then members of her family to reside at Ravenswood, near Newtown, and it was here that she ended her days beloved and respected by all classes for her kind and benevolent actions. Her death has left a gap not easily filled up, and the greatest sympathy is manifested for the bereaved husband and family in their sad and irreparable loss. The chief cause of Mrs Armstrong's death was blood poisoning caused by a severe complication of her kidneys. Mr D. Armstrong only the day before his wife took ill met with an accident while working a young horse, and it is believed that this accelerated the disease, as she was much upset by the accident, and sat up all night in attendance on her husband.

Douglas Adam Armstrong and Elizabeth Mary Higgins had the following children:

- i. ALFRED JOHN⁴ ARMSTRONG (son of Douglas Adam Armstrong and Elizabeth Mary Higgins) was born about 1884 in Blackwood, Western Australia, Australia.

HISTORICAL EVENTS AND PERSONALITIES MEMORY ECHOES. (By "H.") A PIONEER PASSES.

By the death of Mrs Horace Stirling, which took place at the residence of her family- "Norfolk," South Perth-a few days ago, a link with two of the State's earliest pioneer families passed, away. Mrs. Stirling was a member of the Armstrong and Jones families, her four grandparents having been passengers by the ships Gilmore and Lotus, both of which anchored at Fremantle during Foundation Year (1829). Her paternal grandfather-Captain Adam Armstrong-was an officer under the Duke of Wellington; and lost an eye at Waterloo. With his five sons Frank, George, Adam, Christopher, and John, and one daughter, who married a merchant named Montgomery and settled in Canada, the old hero landed at Clarence, locating their farming implements, household effects, and live stock, at Dalkeith, the name of the Armstrong home in Scotland. At that home entertainments were frequently given by Neil Gow, the world's greatest violinist; whose Grand daughter, Margaret Gow, became the wife of the Waterloo veteran. During the 40 's the Armstrongs purchased Ravenswood, near Pinjarrah, now the property of Mrs. Alfred Thomas, who is one of Captain Armstrong's granddaughters. One of the State's octogenarians (Francis Gow Armstrong, JP), ex-Mayor of Geraldton, now a resident of Greenough, is Captain Armstrong's senior living representative, many of whom made the supreme sacrifice at the Great War. Mrs. Adam Armstrong was the eldest daughter of Mr. Richard Jones, who was Perth's first painter and glazier, as well as the original owner of the Terrace- William and Hay-street sites which extend from the Commercial Union Chambers to the Palace Hotel; along William-street to what were until recently Marmion's Buildings; thence along Hay-street to Gleeson's tobacconist shop. The Jones family were also pioneers of the Wanneroo district, and two of its members William and Richard-were, with Captain Hester and Mr. John Allnut, pioneers of the Blackwood country during the early 40's; the cattle station of the Jones family (Southampton) having passed into the hands of the late Captain Nicholas, who was for many years manager of Burbank's mine, near Coolgardie. At the time of her demise Mrs Stirling was in her 68th year. During the 90's she actively engaged in Church and other charity work at Claremont, having devoted considerable time to the erection of Christ Church and its adjoining Parish Hall. Mrs Stirling is survived by her husband and two sons-Edmund, of Trinity House, St. George's Terrace; and Athol, of the Westralian Farmers, Limited.

DEATH OF MR. H. G. STIRLING Authority on Perth History Apparently in good health when he visited a friend at midday yesterday, Mr. Horace G. Stirling, of Perth, has a seizure in an Adelaide office about 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was taken to Adelaide Hospital, where he died at 10 o'clock last night. He had been on holiday in Adelaide for the last three weeks. Mr. Stirling was born in Perth in 1854. He was a son of the late Mr. Edmund Stirling, original proprietor of "The Daily News," Perth. He was employed in the post and telegraph office in Perth, and assisted in laying the transcontinental telegraph line between 'Perth amd Eucla, Later he joined his father and brothers in conducting "The Enquirer" and "The Daily. News," which were controlled by the family. When they relinquished their interests in the papers to Mr. A. Lovelkin, he turned his attention to mining interests and travelled over the whole of the Western Australian goldfields. He never lost his love for journalism, however, and was a frequent contributor to the Western Australian press under the pen name of "Eucalyptus." Mr. Stirling wrote numerous articles on old times and early day identities in Perth. Wandering round the old graves in the cemeteries round Perth had a special fascination for him, as names recorded there of old colonists brought to his memory many incidents and happenings of his early years. He was a loyal Western Australian, and a great believer in the future of that State. Always an optimist, he was bright and cheerful. even in the most depressing circumstances. Mr. Stirling left two sons. Edmund and Athol. who reside in Perth. His wife died about a year ago.

Waggon Runs Over, Kills Unconscious Man On Road
Forty-eight-year-old Vivian Andrew Armstrong, of Jarrahdale, was run over and fatally injured about 6.30 p.m. on Thursday. According to inquiries made by Constable H. Davies, of Mundijong, Armstrong left Jarrahdale with a horse and cart for his home about one mile away at 6 p.m. on Thursday. He apparently fell out of the cart, and lay unconscious on the road. About half an hour later a motor waggon driven by Owen Watkins of Jarrahdale, ran over Armstrong before Watkins could stop it. Armstrong was taken to Jarrahdale Hospital suffering from head injuries and fractured ribs and died at 9.30 p.m.

A Hardy Pioneer. - MR LINDSAY ARMSTRONG.

Our Greenbushes correspondent thus supplements a previous obituary notice appearing in our columns : - The death of Mr Lindsay Richard Armstrong, which occurred on January 15, at the Greenbushes Hospital, after a brief illness, removes another of the hardy pioneers of the Blackwood District, from amongst a large circle of friends, who will miss his genial kind personality. The deceased gentleman was one of the oldest residents of the district. He was born at Ravenswood, Pinjarrah, on August 8, 1852, and lived with his uncles, Messrs R. and W. Jones in 1862 at Southampton. His father, Mr A. Armstrong, landed near Fremantle from the ship Gilmore as far back as 1829, so that he was associated with a family who pinned their faith to Western Australia very early in its history. His wife, Agnes and a family of five sons and four daughters survive him. His son, Roy, was killed whilst on active service with the A. I. F.

Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard had the following children:

- i. ELLA EVELYN⁴ ARMSTRONG (daughter of Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard) was born about 1882 in Blackwood, Western Australia, Australia. She died on 27-Sep-1971 in Perth, Western Australia, Australia. She married Edgar Charles Whitten on 26-Apr-1906 in Greenbushes, Western Australia, Australia.

WITTON-ARMSTRONG.

A very quiet wedding was celebrated on Thursday last, when, at the residence of the bride's parents, on the Blackwood River, Mr. Edgar Charles Witton, a well known resident of Greenbushes and the eldest son of Mr. Witton of Buntory, was married to Miss Ella Evelyn Armstrong, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Armstrong. The ceremony was of the quietest character and only the immediate relatives of the happy couple were present. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. H. Devlin. Miss Lily Armstrong sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid and Mr. H. Kirkwood as best man. The happy couple have been the recipients of a large number of handsome presents.

They left for Busselton the same day where the honeymoon will be spent.

- ii. OSWALD LINDSAY ARMSTRONG (son of Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard) was born about 1883 in Blackwood, Western Australia, Australia. He died about 1950 in Sussex, Western Australia, Australia.

Pioneer's Death

There died in Busselton recently a descendant of two of Western Australia's oldest families, the founders of which arrived in the State in the year 1829. He was Mr. Oswald Lindsay Armstrong, who was born at Noralup Park, Balingup, in 1874, and who farmed the property Gregory Park on the Blackwood River until about 4 years ago when he retired to live at Busselton, sharing his time between his sister Lily, and brother Ernest. Mr. Armstrong was a member of the fourth generation of two pioneering families. He was the great grandson of Richard Jones, who arrived in W.A. on the ship "Lotus" in 1829, and of Captain Adam Armstrong who arrived in the same year in the Gilmore. Mr. Jones was the original owner of the area extending from the Commercial Union

Chambers to the Palace Hotel up William-street to Hay-street and along there to Gleeson's tobacconist's shop, but he disposed of this property in the early 1840's and took up land at Southampton on the Blackwood, eight miles from Balingup. He had the first flour mill in the district, with a water wheel the construction being supervised by Sir John Forrest's father, who was building the first Blackwood river bridge at Bridgetown, and who spent his spare time at Southampton. The grave of Johnny Alum, an Indian cook who came out with the family, and who died in '68 at the age of 83, and of the native outlaw Nullung shot by the police at the Mill, are close to the old homestead. Mr. Armstrong's other great grandfather, Captain Armstrong, who has commanded a Highland Regiment at Waterloo, originally settled on the Swan River, and named the site Dalkeith after their Scottish home, but later moved to Ravenswood, on the Murray River.

(We are indebted for this information to Miss Lily A. Armstrong, of Bussell Highway Busselton, who says that they are still very interested in Blackwood "doings" and pleased to receive the "Blackwood Times".

- iii. LILLY AGNES ARMSTRONG (daughter of Lindsay Richard Armstrong and Agnes Kate McHard) was born about 1885 in Blackwood, Western Australia, Australia. She died on 02-Oct-1974 in Claremont, Western Australia, Australia.

SOUTH-WEST WEDDING.

FERGUSON- ARMSTRONG. GREENBUSHES CEREMONY.

(From Our Correspondent.)

Recently a pretty wedding was celebrated in St. Barnabas' Church, Greenbushes, the rector of Donnybrook (Rev. F. J. T. Atwell) officiating, the happy couple being Mr.

Donald Ferguson, youngest son of Mr. J. M. Ferguson, of Mt. Lawley, and Eileen ('Tony'), third daughter of Mrs. A. K. Armstrong, and the late Mr. L. R. Armstrong. The bride was given away by her brother Oswald, and wore a charming frock of soft satin, which was slightly draped and caught on one side with a beaded cabouehon and on the other side with a spray of orange blossom; a graceful beaded draping falling from the shoulders formed (he sleeves. The veil fell from a chaplet of orange blossom and formed a pretty train. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and fern, and wore a pearl ring, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids (Miss Maud Armstrong and Miss Sylvia Rose) wore frocks of rose pink and mauve satin caprices, draped with beautiful silver lace; silver lace and bugle beads formed . becoming head dresses. Each carried a bouquet of pink and mauve sweet peas, and wore gold wishbone and Nellie Stewart armlets, gifts of the bridegroom. Little Monnie. Fisher, cousin of the bride, carried her veilj, and was daintily frocked in white georgette trimmed with Val. lace and pink and blue rosebuds. The bride's mother Avore a becoming dress of black .satin and georgette, heavily beaded., with hat of black and satin trimmed with radium lace and mauve poppies. She carried a bouquet of beautiful violets. The bride's travelling dress consisted of a handsomely handworked fawn trietotine, the panels of the skirt being lined with satin of the same shade; the hat was of shot velvet with a green feather. Her travelling coat, a gift of the bridegroom, was of green velour with black fur collar and cuffs. Mr. W. Sullivan was best man, and Mr. M. Greatorex groomsmen. The bride presented the bridegroom with a handsome travelling rug. Mrs. A. J. Fisher made a gift of the wedding cake. Both the church and Miners' Hall, where the reception was held, were tastefully decorated. About some 70 guests sat down to the breakfast, the catering being in the capable hands, of Mr. F. Vague and Mrs. B. M. McLeod. There were visitors from Kojonup, Perth, Bunbury, and Bridgetown.

SOCIAL NOTES. My Fremantle correspondent writes:--Fremantle seemed en fete on Wedfhesday afternoon last when the marriage of Mr. John Wesley Bateman, principal of the firm of J. and W. Bateman,-and eldest son of Mrs. J. W. Bateman, of "Sydenham," Moss-street, East Fremantle, to Miss Daisy Kate Augusta Sendey, second daughter of Mrs. Edgar Sendey, and granddaughter of Mrs. Alex. Francisco. of Quarry Cottage, Victoria-road, was solemnised. The ceremony took place at St. John's Church, which was prettily and lightly decorated by Mrs. G. S. Shuffrey for the occasion, and long before the hour fixed for the ceremony the church and precincts were crowded with interested friends and well-wishers of the bride and bridegroom, who were both born in Fremantle, and whose parents and grandparents' names are well known and honoured throughout the whole State. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Bnllen, who journeyed from York for the purpose, and who was assisted in the service by the rector of St. John's, Canon Moore. 'The church organist, Miss Vera Patrick, presided, and during the interval between the arrival of the guests and the coming of the bride some fine voluntaries were, played. The bride, who was given away by her cousin, Sir Walter James, made a charming picture in her soft bridal gown of ivory white crepe de chide, opening at the side overdress to disclose a rich satin foundation. The corsage and draped skirt were inlet with Indian-made silk lace, which was delicately outlined with a tracery of miniature silver beads, the same trimming applied on the closely-tucked chiffon sleeves and yoke, the whole being finished with a gracefully-falling court train, turned on one corner, with a spray of orange blossom. "A veil of exquisite and most valuable lace, kindly lent by Lady James, and prevfously belonging to her great-grandmother, was worn in Victorian fashion off the face, and completely covered in filmny beauty the 'long coart train. A becoming spray of waxen orange blossom held the veil, and was originally used by the bride's mother as her bridal yreath. A novel note was struck in her bouquet, which,- instead of the customary one of white, was composed of rich crimson roses and carnations, with a shower of delicate ferns over soft tulle streamers.' Her oriaments were a handsome gold necklet and jewelled pendant, the gift of Sir Walter and Lady James, and a jewelled spray brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. The two bridesmaids, who heralded the bride by preceding 'her up, the aisle, were Miss Florrie Sendey (sister) and Miss Nell Humble,, the former wearing a pretty dress of pale heliotrope chiffon glace, inlet with fine cream lace, and Miss Humble in a soft shade of apricot silk, finished with 'raised silk lace. Both dresses were made in tunic fashion, and the coldurs were most becomink, and blended delightfully. Large black satin picture hate, with' silk cord and tulle chou, completed charminig toilettes, and they carried lovely waterfall bouquets of roses and fern, and wore the bridegroom's giftsMiss Sendey a handsome gold bracelet and Miss Humble a gold necklet and jewelled pendant. The duties of best man were performed by Mr. Windsor Tickell, and those of groomsman by Mi. Tod Higham. The day, which threatened' to be dull and wet, brightened considerably. as the bridal party entered the church, and at the conclusion of the ceremony the brightest of warm blue skies and sunshine happily prevailed, surely ai happy omen .A . reception was held by Mrs. Francisco and Mrs. ' Sendey, at the Caledonian Hall, which was largely attended. Mrs. Francisco received at the head of the flower-enveloped stairway, in 'a handsome costume of merveilleux and lace, with brocaded cape, and bonnet of chifon and violets, and she held a Victorian bouquet of violets and autumn leaves. Mrs. Sendey wore a tailor-made navy costume, with black fur and muff, and smart green toque, carrying a bouquet of tinted roses and fern. Mrs. J. W. Bateman wore black crepe de chine and lace, black and white toque. After the guests had offered hearty congratulations to the bride and bridegroom, they spent some time viewing the handsome presents, which included a solid silver tea and coffee service, in an oaken chest, the gift of Turnbull and Co. (Messrs. J. and W. Bateman's, London agents), and a very handsome marble clock from the employees of J. and W. Bateman. The gift of the bride's grandmother was a full set of solid silver forks and spoons, with richly embossed old-time handles. The hall was beautifully decorated with lace curtains and drapings, and arranged throughout with handsome carpets and rugs, small tables being placed about for the extra convenience of guests. Flowers were everywhere, narcissi and violets prevailing. The bridal table, placed across an alcove, looked lovely, with its lightly arranged violets and fern in silver holders and sprays of beautiful maiden-hair falling about the exquisite bridal cloth (a family relic a hundred years old) and in perfect preservation. Lace curtains fell before the alcove, divided by a marriage bell covered in fern and snowdrops, and during the serving of the daintiest of refreshments the health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by the Rev. S. S. Bullen, who referred to the high esteem in which both were held, and wished them every blessing and happiness in their future, which he hoped would be long and full of joy. Mr. Bateman, in a few pleasant words, responded, and proposed the health of the bridesmaids. Mr. Windsor Tickell replied on their behalf, and the health of the parents was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Bryant, in an interesting reminiscent speech. Sir Walter James responded for them in his happy, genial style. A vocal solo by Miss Lulu Payne, was heard with great pleasure, and subsequently Mr. and Mrs. Bateman left for their honeymoon amid a shower of confetti and rose petals. The bride travelled in a smartly-cut tailor coat and skirt, with lace vest and becoming hat of pale pink chip, with Oriental braid and feather. In the evening a large number of young people were entertained at the hall, and an enjoyable time spent in dancing. The singing of the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne" brought a pleasant evening to a close.

BATEMAN-HAMMOND.

A wedding of much interest took place last Wednesday, April 29, at St. John's Church, Fremantle, when Miss Gertie Hammond, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hammond, was married to Mr. Lewis Bateman, of North Fremantle. The church, was tastefully decorated by the girl friends of the bride. The service, conducted by the Rev. O'Halloran and Canon Barton-Parkes, was fully choral. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very handsome in her beautiful bridal dress of ivory radium over glace. The bodice was embroidered with white chenille and daintily trimmed with a yoke of fine French lace and insertion, with touches of silver thread and tassels, while the skirt was simple and graceful in Empire style, with a padded hem, and finished with French knots. The long, exquisite veil of Brussels lace falling almost to the foot of the skirt, was kept in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of tuberose, carnations, and maiden-hair fern, tied with white tulle streamers, which, with pearl earrings and an enamel and pearl bangle, was the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Bessie Hammond, sister of the bride, and Miss Mabel Bateman, sister of the bridegroom. They wore frocks of floral chiffon in tones of heliotrope and green over champagne glace, made in Empire style, with embroidered chiffon yokes and touches of moss-green velvet and gold thread: hats of gold straw, with shaded green roses and green panne velvet, and carried posies of pale yellow chrysanthemums and ferns, tied with moss-green streamers. Two other dainty little maids-Molly Learmonth and Doris Brown-wore sweet little frocks of cream Organdie muslin, with fine Torchon lace and insertion, cream silk sashes, and charming little cream satin Grecian bonnets, and carried white floral bells. Mr. Sid. Hammond was best man. and Mr. Norman Church groomsmen. After the ceremony a reception was held by the bride's parents at Penshurst, East Fremantle, where the bride and bride-groom received the congratulations of their many friends. Mrs. Hammond (mother of the bride) wore a handsome gown of dark-green cloth, and carried a bouquet of deep-red carnations and ferns. The following is a list of the invited guests:-Mrs. Bateman (mother of the bridegroom), Miss Hammond (aunt of the bride). Mr. and Mrs. Allnutt, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Learmonth. Dr. and Mrs. White, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Moss. Mrs. W. D. Moore, Mrs. Lilly. Mr. and Mrs. Hannay, Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, Dr. and Mrs. Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Herring, Mr. and Mrs. Bertie Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Church. Mr. and Mrs. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Carlyon. Mr. and Mrs. Gawler, Mr. and Mrs. Shuffrey. Dr. and Mrs. Lotz, Mr. and Mrs. Higham. Mr. and Mrs. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Harry King, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Leeds, Mr. and Mrs. Laurie, Mesdames Martin. Rischbeith. Tickell, Royce, Sender. Waldeck, Beresford, Hope, Stirling Misses Bateman, Leeds, Moor, Fethergill. Congdon, Allnutt, Lilly, Royce, Clifton, Smith, Laurie, Martin, Bishop, Duffield. Tickell, Manuel, and Shell, and the Messrs. Tickell. Clifton, Manuel, Bateman, Church, and Win-grove. The bride and bridegroom left later in the afternoon by motor for Armadale, the bride wearing a smart blue tailor-made coat and skirt and green shot-silk hat, with large green wings.

Lewis Lindsay Bateman and Gertrude Mariane Hammond had the following children:

- i. LOIS LINDSAY⁵ BATEMAN (daughter of Lewis Lindsay Bateman and Gertrude Mariane Hammond) was born on 15-Sep-1910 in Fremantle, Western Australia, Australia¹⁵⁹ (). A MUCH-FETED BRIDE-ELECT

MISS LOIS BATEMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bateman, of Crawley, whose marriage to Dr. Douglas Campbell Wilson is to take place on Wednesday next at St. Georges Cathedral.

Daily News (Perth, WA : 1882 - 1950), Wednesday 26 April 1933, page 8

Tonight's WEDDING - A Link With 1829

The marriage this evening of Miss Lois Bateman to Dr. Douglas Campbell Wilson is of special interest as the bride (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Bateman, of Crawley) is the first granddaughter of the Bateman family to marry. Mr. John Bateman arrived in the Gilmor at Fremantle and settled there in 1829. Captain Armstrong, the maternal great-grandparent of the bride, arrived at the same time. At the reception this evening, which will follow the ceremony, Mrs. John Bateman, now over 80, will be present. Miss Lois Bateman therefore is a real representative (on both sides of the family) of the early pioneers. Mrs. John Bateman is the elder daughter of Captain Armstrong, and Mr. Ned Stirling, another member of the family, is a son of the captain's younger daughter, Mrs. Horace Stirling. The bride's mother, Mrs. L. Bateman, is the eldest daughter of Mr. Hammond, of the firm of Simon, Hammond and Hubble, merchants, which for many years carried on business in Fremantle and Perth. The bridegroom is a son of Dr. J. A. Campbell-Wilson, of St. George's Terrace, Perth, and lives in Dowerin, where the new home will be. The bride will be gowned in cream angelskin lace, built with long sleeves, and touches of white velvet. The tulle veil is beautifully applied, and held in place with a little spray of orange blossom. Her bridesmaids are Miss Mary Bateman, Miss Betty Davies, and Miss Jean Campbell, whose frocks are similar, of a Leschenaultia blue georgette with tiny vandyked frills on the skirt, and belts of twisted velvet in shades of blue and pink. Matching swathes make their headdresses, which are finished with a veil falling to the back. They carry posies of pink roses. Mrs. Bateman is wearing dark-brown lace, with a little matching velvet cap, and carrying pink roses. The Ven. Archdeacon Riley will perform the ceremony, and the bridegroom will be supported by Mr. John Virtue as best man, with Dr. Woodhouse and Dr. Oxer as groomsmen. Although the invitations have been limited to relatives and very old friends, nearly 100 will be entertained in the Karrakatta Club after the ceremony. The table decorations will be carried out in roses and fern, with some magnificent dahlia blooms also lending color.

A wedding, which caused great interest took place in the Johnstone Memorial Church, Fremantle, on Wednesday afternoon, at 8 o'clock, the contracting parties being Miss Mabel Bateman, only daughter of Mrs John Bateman, East Fremantle, and Mr Henry Marley youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Maley, of Greenough. The bride, who was given away by her brother Mr. John Bateman, was dressed in an exquisite frock of white duchesse satin with rare lace on the bodice and a court train, a long tulle veil kept in place by a wreath of orange blossom, and carried a shower bouquet of choicest flowers. The maids of honor were Miss Muriel Higham and Miss Grace Edgar (cousins of the bride) who were attired in white crepe de-chine, and wore chic hats of pale blue cloth trimmed with squirrel fur, and carried bouquets of pink roses, which, with gold bangles, were the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Bertie Bateman undertook the duties of best man. The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a handsome pearl and turquoise necklet. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mrs. John Bateman. During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Maley left by motor for their honeymoon to the caves, the bride travelling in a smart dress of Wedgewood blue, and hat to match. A lovely collection of handsome and useful presents were received. Amongst these present were Mr and Mrs. Harry Higham and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Some of the Victoria District delegates went down to Fremantle to see the marriage of Mr. Harry K. Maley to Miss Mabel Bateman, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Bateman, at Johnson Memorial Church. To one of them I am indebted for the following particulars. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. J. Bateman, wore white charmeuse silk over lace, the corsage being trimmed with point lace, and the usual wreath and veil. The two bridesmaids wore white crepe-de-chine dresses, trimmed with Paris lace, and large pale blue hats, trimmed with squirrel fur. I saw one of these, hats afterwards, and it was exceedingly pretty and novel. Mr. H. P. Bateman was best man. After the ceremony, the guests adjourned to 'Sydenham' Moss street, East Fremantle, where they were received by the bride's mother, dressed in black silk voile. Wedding tea was served, after which the happy couple went for their honeymoon, the bride's going-away dress being of saxe blue cloth, with big blue hat, trimmed with ribbon and quills.

LOCKE-KOEPPE.

A quiet but pretty wedding of interest was recently celebrated at the Congregational Church, Dalwallinu, when Evelyn Laura, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Koeppe (late of Mt. Lawley) was united in marriage to Frank Cecil, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Locke. The Rev. T. Sullivan officiated. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, who subsequently gave her away, looked lovely frocked in a quaint Early Victorian dress (specially sent from Melbourne) of French chiffon and chantilly lace, daintily finished with true lovers' knots executed in pearls. Her handsome court train of white chiffon was enhanced with a soft lining of pale shade of apricot, and the chantilly lace veil being held in place by a pretty coronet of orange blossoms. A lovely posy of white roses and maiden hair fern completed a handsome toilette. The bride was attended by two bridesmaid, Miss Greta Locke and Miss Joan Kitchin, both attired in white georgette, a quaint touch lent by the newest idea in headdress, which was carried out in tones of apricot, the streamers falling in soft folds to the hem of their dresses. They carried pretty posies of roses to tone. Mr. Henry Kelsall carried out the duties of best man, Mr. H. J. Yelverton being groomsman. The wedding breakfast was held at the residence of the bride's , parents, the room being beautifully decorated with white roses and streamers by Mrs. C. Kitchin (sister of the bride). The happy couple were the ' recipients of many handsome gifts and cheques. The honeymoon was spent at Albany, the bride travelling in a smart frock of navy crepe de chine, introducing the new coatee effect with waistcoat of cerise, and hat en suite.

Frank Cecil Locke and Evelyn Laura Koeppe had the following child:

- i. GRETA⁵ LOCKE (daughter of Frank Cecil Locke and Evelyn Laura Koeppe).
